DECISION

The Tribunal determined that the Landlord has failed to comply with the Repairing Standard Enforcement Order dated 29 August 2024 (“RSEO”) within the period of time set out in the RSEO. Notice of the failure will be served on the local authority. The Tribunal also determined to make a rent relief order. The Tribunal's decision is unanimous.

Background

The Tribunal issued a decision dated 29 August 2024 requiring the Landlord to comply with the RSEO relative to the Property issued by the Tribunal on the same date. The RSEO required the Landlord to:

- 1. Provide to the Tribunal a current Electrical Installation Condition Report from a SELECT, NICEIC or NAPIT registered electrician following a full inspection of the electrical installation and apparatus throughout the Property confirming the installation and apparatus is satisfactory, is fully functioning, meets current regulatory standards and containing no category C1 or C2 items of disrepair..
- 2. Provide to the Tribunal a current Gas Safety Certificate for the Property prepared by a Gas Safe Engineer, which includes confirmation that a carbon monoxide detector has been installed in the Property.

3. If not already done, install interlinked smoke and heat detection in accordance with Scottish Government statutory guidelines.
4. Provide to the Tribunal a current PAT test certificate addressing the state of repair of all appliances provided by the Landlord in the Property. The PAT test certificate should be prepared by a suitably qualified tester and should show the working order of each appliance and whether the condition is satisfactory.
5. Evidence of the date of installation of the carbon monoxide detector and the smoke and heat detection, such as copy invoices showing the date of installation.

The Tribunal ordered that the works specified in this order must be carried out and completed within the period of 28 days from the date of service of the RSEO.

A re-inspection was scheduled to take on 9 December 2024. The Tribunal attended the Property on 9 December 2024 but were unable to gain access. A further re-inspection was scheduled to take on 9 September 2025. The Tribunal attended the Property on 9 September 2025 but were unable to gain access. The Tribunal issued a direction dated 23 December 2025 in terms of which the Landlord was required to lodge the information set out in the RSEO. A response was requested by 13 February 2026. No response was received.

Reasons for Decision

The Tribunal unanimously determined that the Landlord has failed to comply with the RSEO within the period of time for completion of the works set out in the RSEO. Items 1,2,4 and 5 of the RSEO required paperwork to be lodged with the Tribunal. Nothing was lodged by the Landlord.

The Tribunal determined to make a rent relief order in terms of section 27 of the Housing (Scotland) Act 2006.

Section 27 of the Act states : “A rent relief order is an order by the First-tier Tribunal which reduces the rent payable under the tenancy in question by such amount (not exceeding 90% of the rent which would, but for the order, be payable) ...”.The amount by which the rent should be reduced is a matter for the discretion of the Tribunal. The failure to provide an EICR, a gas safety certificate and evidence of the installation of carbon monoxide, smoke and heat detection raises serious health and safety concerns. The Landlord has had more than ample time to comply with the RSEO.

There can be a number of mitigating and aggravating factors which a Tribunal can take into account in determining the correct percentage to apply in any particular case. The Landlord did not engage in the Tribunal process and did not put forward any mitigating factors. The total lack of engagement by the Landlord is an aggravating factor as are the health and safety concerns raised by the lack of required certification.

Having balanced all the factors the Tribunal determined that a reduction of rent in the sum of 90% would be reasonable and proportionate. The rent relief order will be effective from 28 days after the last date on which a request may be made for permission to appeal this decision.

Right of Appeal

In terms of Section 46 of the Tribunal (Scotland) Act 2014, a party aggrieved by the decision of the Tribunal may appeal to the Upper Tribunal for Scotland on a point of law only. Before an appeal can be made to the Upper Tribunal, the party must first seek permission to appeal from the First-tier Tribunal. That party must seek permission to appeal within 30 days of the date the decision was sent to them.
